

LEARN FOUNDATION LAW

Hi! I'm Maya.

Have we met? If we have, hello again. If this is the first time you're hearing from me, thank you for the opportunity to introduce myself and share more about how I help others learn about foundation law.

Nearly five years ago, I was created thanks to the vision of several people in the legal departments at the David and Lucile Packard Foundation, the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation, the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and the Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation.

This incredible bunch recognized that collectively they had a great deal of experience in legal rules for foundations and that there was a need for an instructional resource for their employees and others in the private foundation world. They were also keenly aware that trainings on legal rules haven't traditionally been, well, that interesting.

Here's where I enter! Actually, here is where LearnFoundationLaw.org enters. Have you heard of it? This is a resource to help people, like you and me, learn the legal rules for foundations. The courses are pretty cool and interesting (and I'm not just saying that because I'm the star!).

These training modules really do make learning about things like advocacy and lobbying, expenditure responsibility and electioneering prohibition interesting! Take a look for yourself. What I like about the training modules is I can learn at my own pace. The information is not only easy to understand, but it's presented in a way where I can easily see how it applies to my work at a foundation. I learn what foundations can and cannot do in support of their missions.

Please let {CONTACT NAME/INFO} know if you have any questions about Learn Foundation Law or me, Maya!

Sincerely,
Maya
